Dear Father,

My name is Mark Stumbris I am the owner of BirdAsh a software development company, and the President of the newly founded Computer Developers Union. I would like to ask your permission to host our first meeting at St. Sabina, although we are not a religious organization I believe we have very similar goals.

The Computer Development Union is a organization of people that are in the technical industry or wish to be in the industry, we are an all inclusive group that wish to bring more people into this higher paying job market. We will share ideas on how to develop and build applications like <https://undergroundhair.firebaseio.com/> a fantastic way to tell and direct people to new businesses, and this www.birdash.com a 3 dimensional software program that can make fun educational games along with having broad reaching utilitions for real life applications.

I'm very excited about the Computer Developers Union and I hope to talk with you more about the possibility of getting the kids from St. Sabina's school, along with other future developers in the neighborhood involved in the Union. We will make training as important as innovation to help build a stronger Chicago and brighter future for our kids.

Sincerely,

Mark Stumbris
